The style of the new church is the later decorated Gothle of the fourteenth century, the form of the ecclesiastical architecture which flourished during the period of Edward IIL, and in which so many of the becautiful parish churches of England were crizinally erected. It will be substantially betilt—the walls of a light rose-colored granite from Lyme, near the mouth of the Connecticut river, and the offsets, hood moulds, drips, string courses and other external dressings of Belleville stone, from the quarries near Newars, N. J.

The structure will be erectform, and consist of a nave, with north and south aisles, measuring together so by 87½ feet, north and south transcepts, with aisles each 25 by 56 feet, having the sacristy on the north sine of the chancel and an organ comber on the south side of the same general dimensions. The subject of the chancel window will probably be the "Christus Consolator" of ary schener or the "Ascension," by Raphael: those of the transcpt the "Nativity" and the "Resurrection." The large window at the north end of the transcpt will be the gift of the architect, Arthur Gifman, and the subject "the Infant Samuel," after Sir Josanua Repnoids favorite picture, intended as a memorial window to his only son, who died last year.

The roofs of the nave, chancel and transcpts are all to be of open timber worst of the most solid construction, done in bold grained chestnut wood and supported by struts resting on stone corbeis in every pier. The interior height of the nave will be forty-two fees from the floor to top of hammer beam, where the central section will be roofed over by horizontal paneling. The ciere story windows are to be fined with painted glass in correspondence with the rest of the charch. The whole interior is to be headed by steam and ventilated, in connection with the heating apparatus, in the most careful and scientific manner. The churca, when completed, will harmonize with its picturesque surroundings, and the lofty spire, rising from luxuriant foliage, will guide the storm-tossed marner to a safe harbor and point many generations to a haven of eternal blessedness. stands at the corner of Belair rose and New Y avenue, was faid on the 12th of September, 1848.

FATAL EMBANKMENT ACCIDENT.

Between seven and eight o'clock fast night a man named Frank O'Brien, residing in Jackson street, Newark, N. J., while engaged in clearing away some Newark, N. J., while engaged in clearing away some earth from the rear of his house, close to the Newark and New York Railroad, the embankment suddenly gave way and buried him him several feet in the debris. Some of his friends in the immediate neighborhood dug away the earth as quickly as possible after the occurrence, but when they got him out he was quite dead. The deceased was a laborer, forty-five years of age and a native of Ireland. He leaves a wife and three young children to deplore his sad end. An inquest will be held on the body to-day.

factory in John street, and claims $5,000 damages for being bitten by their dog. The circumstances were that the piantiff, who was a milliwright on the premises, went into the yard at an unseasonable nour, and was wounded in the arm by the dog in a manner causing great pain, expense for surgical skill and loss of time. The plaintiff charges that the defendant kept a feroctous dog, knowing him to be such, and indie to bite and wound mankind.

The defendant averred that the dog was lawfully kept in the yard as a watch dog, to guard against the encroachiment upon the premises of improper persons; that the dog was chained during business and unchained after business hours, and the plaintiff well knew it; that the dog was not naturally a victous dog, and had never before bitten anybody.

The jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff, and assessed the damages at $250.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS' COURT.

The Staten Island Counterfeiters.

Refore Commissioner Jones. Yesterday afternoon W. Kempton and John Ripon the two men who were recently arrested nea Prince's Bay, Staten Island, on a charge of counterfetting internal revenue stamps, were taken before United States Commissioner Jones for examination.

John Ripon decided to waive an examination, and was held to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Mr. O. P. Buell, of the firm of Erhardt & Buell, appeared as counsel for Kempton, and the govern-ment was represented by Mr. Edward L. Parris, peared as counsel for Kempton, and the government was represented by Mr. Edward L. Parris, United States Assistant District Attorney. Mr. J. C. Nettleship, of the Secret Service Bureau, who made the arrest, testified that he went down to Prince's Bay, S. L. and in a house on a private road, about half a mile from the shore, he found Kempton, Rippon, Kempton's wife and a number of culdren. He then proceeded to search the house, when he found a printing press and different kinds of printing ink. After being there some time Ripon told him that he would snow him where the phates were burned. He then took a spade and went out into the garden and dug up a tin box about twenty inches wide and a foot in depth. It contained a plate for engraving 210 one cent revenue stamps, a bed plate and also dies.

There was also a large piece of wollen cloth, and the box was filed up with printed from the plates. Mr. Nettleship said he had a conversation with Kempton, who, he said, acknowledged that the press belonged to him and se had used it for tracing on paper instead of using a pencil. While bringing him over to New York Kempton inquired what had become of Ripon, who is his brother-in-law. He was told that Ripon had "blowed," whereupon Kempton said he was glad of that and he did not care if Ripon did testify against him. He said all he had done was to perforate the stamps after they were not offered in evidence?

At this point counsel for the accused asked what had become of the plates and dies, and why they were not offered in evidence?

Mr. Parris stated that they had been sent on to Washington by Colonei Whiteley, the Chfef of the Secret Service Department.

Counsel then moved to have his client discharged on the ground that no evidence had been produced to show that the plates or stamps were counterfeit.

After the question had been argued the Commissioner adjourned the examination until Friday, for the parpose of having the plates and dies produced. These two men are, it is stated, members of the same gang of alleged count

THE WASHINGTON AVENUE CASUALTY.

Inquest Touching the Cause of the Death of Mrs. Baker-Was There Foul Play?

An inquest was held last evening before Coroner Whitehill and a jury, at the County Court House, Brooklyn, touching the cause of the death of Mrs. the victim of foul play. Deceased was the proprie ress of a liquor store corner of Washington avenue and Warren street. Saturday after midnight there was a fight in the place between a party trees of a liquor store corner of Washington avenue and Warren street. Saturday after midnight there was a fight in the piace between a party of men who were drinking there, one of whom was cut about the head, and Mrs. Baker went out to the cistern in the back yard to get some water to bathe his wounds. Subsequently she was found in the cistern with her head downwards, drowned. As there were contusions about the forehead, and other marks of violence found on the body upon examination, which was held by Dr. A. W. Shepard, a more thorough investigation was deemed advisable in the premises.

The first witness sworn was Mrs. Mary McDermot, a daughter of the deceased, who testified that she resided in Dean street; she was at her mother's house on Saturday evening, November 6th, after hime o'clock; Mr. Flynn and Mrs. Bromley and deceased were there in the barroom; soon after a Mr. Newman and a Mr. Wade, or Twade came in and had a glass of ale cach; then another man came in and the party entered into conversation and took several glasses of ale; about cleven o'clock witness started to go home and helped her mother to put up the sbutters; Mr. Flynn had made several efforts to leave during the evening and go home but was prevented from doing so by Mrs. Baker, who requested him not to leave; at ten minutes to tweive deceased aid to the party, "Gentlemen, please. I am going to shut up and I'm going to treat you, what will you drink?" they drank and all went out; witness told her mother to tell Flynn that she wished to speak to him; he came back and she said to him, and thinks was between them; Newman said to Flynn, "Get up, you s—n of a b—h, and go out of here;" witness asked Newman to make no trouble, when Flynn was struck by one of the parties and a regular fight ensued: they broke the windows and Mrs. Baker was knocked down in the melee; Flynn ran out, and witness was between them; Newman said to Flynn, "Get up, you s—n of a b—h, and knew nothing more until she saw two officers at the door; Flynn's face was cut, and de brother relinquished their rights to their mother; lately, when the Park Commissioners made an award to deceased for property of hers taken for Prospect Park, her sister wanted that she should come in for her shage in the event of the mother dying, as she feaced that the brother would be left all; the mother gave the sisters each a note, which satisfied us; there was never any difficulty on this subject. The inquest was then adjourned until this evening.

THE WAR OF THE CHOULS.

Miss Tackaberry and Mr. Van Vleck-"High ism Looking for Bets.

Irving Hall last evening was the scene of some high old times. The Gold Exchange was nowhere in comparison to the excitement which prevailed here. Spiritualists were on the warpath and the gobiins played the very mischief. Miss Tackaberry gave another seance to prove the "immortality of the soul." What a joily time souls must have, if her revelations (?) are true. While some imagine, poor creatures, that when the soul shuffles off its poor creatures, that when the soul shulles off its mortal coil and goes to regions unknown it there enjoys a new creation, untainted with the material workings of this mundane sphere, they little imagine what a gay and festive scene awaits the soul. The medium was duly tied under the supervision of a committee—the committee did not do much of the tyfng, for that would spoil the joke—her mouth plastered, aithough her tongue was not prevented from wagging, and then she was placed in the cabinet, and made fast to a chair. The master of ceremonies closed the doors of the cabinet, and, seating himself alongside, called spirit "Ben," who must have been a jolly old soul in the flesh—a cross between a Downeaster and a Fenlan. "Ben," announced himself ready to oblige the audience. He was asked how long it took him to reach the spirit land after he died, and he answered "Only six hours!" "Did he see God when he got there!" "On, yes!" Some one asked the spirit if ne went to heaven at all. "Well, I guess I didn't go to no other place, not if I knows myself, which I think I do," said the spirit, putuing the sim audience in merry spirits. He then sang what the "gods of the gallery" would call songs, and had a duet with some female spirit to the air of "Villikina and me Dinah," said female spirit's voice bearing a remarkable athinity to a falsetto of Ben's voice.

When Ben was asked to ring the bell, after requesting that Miss Tackaberry's feet should be ned. "O tempore I O mores!" Miss Tackaberry's beautifully moulded ankies were tied in full view of the audience, and by a—lady. Everything having been arranged Ben got ready to ring the bell, it took a long time to get ready; for in his enforts to get hold of the bell he knocked it over two or three times, came near knocking the cabinet over, exposing the aforesaid ankles rather more than a good spirit would; and, finally, after some tremendous efforts, succeeded in ringing the beli. Then Ben obligingly united the medium, threw the cords through an opening in the cabinet, and mortal coll and goes to regions unknown it there After devotional exercises a resolution was adopted to the effect that in the absence of principals, afternates be admitted to seats.

Dr. Musgrave moved that all matters requiring the concurrence of both assemblies be referred to the Committee on Conference.

Senator Drake, of Missouri, read the report of, the committee appointed to investigate the difficulties in connection with the Semmary of the Northwest, at Chicago, congratulating the Assembly on the amicable adjustment thereof. The report recommends that Dr. Whiles S. Lord be retained in the chair of systematic theology, occupied by Mr. McCormick; that Cyrus G. McCormick be released from the payment of the one-fourth instalment of $2,000 of his gift of $100,000 to the institution and he be regarded as having fuffilled his obligations, and that the three trustees elected by this Assembly be requested to resign, and that their places be filled by persons acceptable to all parties. In the afternoon session Dr. Musgrave, of the joint Committee of the Union between the fold School and the New School and the United Presbyterian Churches, reported that the meeting of the committee in Pittsburg in August adjourned sine die, contrary to request; that another meeting had been asked by representatives of the Old and New Schools, but Dr. Pressby declined to consent to any further consultation on the subject.

FISR'S LATEST ENTERPRISE.

A Mammoth Freight Line to Paterson-The

Old Expressmen to be Kicked Out. The new tariff on freight between Paterson and New York went into effect yesterday on the Eric Railway. The increase is five cents per hundred weight, or one dollar per ton, making the freight between the two cities mentioned $2 03 per ton, where it was before $1 06. The order for the increase says it is for "terminal expenses," and is to be made as a separate item. Those who insist upon this charge as being illegal assert that the charter of the Paterson and Hudson River Rathroad Company (over whose track the Erie cars run) only authori charge of five cents per hundred weight; that the Erie was subsequently allowed an extra charge of three cents for tunnel expenses, and afterwards three cents more on account of the government tax, and that this additional charge of five cents is wholly albie man and doubless the actual manager. So far as the people are concerned in general it makes but little difference who does the business, provided the freights are not extortionate; but to the old expressmen it looks like nothing less than a total annihilation of their hitherto prosperous and peace able avocations.

THE ERIE RAIL WAY TROUBLES.

men, has been adjusted satisfactorily. The despatch further reads as follows:—

The trouble at this place last night has been greatly exaggrated. The difficulty occurred between the new brakemen and the deputy sherifs on the one side, and the old brakemen on the other, and in which several shots were exchanged, but no person seriously injured. The old brakemen are being paid off and discharged and new men put on the trains, which are running regularly, and no further trouble is anticipated.

SUICIDE BY POISON. Last Friday night a man appeared at the Whitney

House, corner of Twelfth street and Broadway, and, registering his name as B. T. Hanley, asked for lodgings, and at a late hour retired to his room. The following night Hanley engaged the same room, and going out did not return till between two and three o'clock the next morning, when he asked for the key and went up stairs. Some hours inter the lodger was found dead in bed, and in the room were discovered two letters, signed "Frank," believed to be from his wife in Boston. In one of the letters the writer asks for money with which to pay a board bill and to meet other expeases. Coroner Rollins was notified and yesterday neld an inquest on the body, when John Connor, night cierk at the Whitney House, testified to the fact of deceased engaging a room there, but he know of no motive for his taking his own life. Mr. Hanley had but little if any baggage with him. Deputy Coroner John Heach made a post mortem examination of the body and found that death resulted from some irritiant poison. The jury rendered a verdict in accordance with the foregoing facts. Coroner Rollins has carried the remains to an undertaker's where they will be kept a considerable length of time for reclaimation by the relatives for interment. Mr. Hanley was about forty-five years of age and believed to have been a native of Massachusetts. tween two and three o'clock the next morning, Shipping Notes.

New California Clipper—Another beautiful elipper ship has been added to the California fleet, and from her general appearance she bids fair to rival the best of those now affoat. Captain Isaac Lucas, her commander, has shown a satior's partiality in calling her the Charmer, as the old famous elipper ship of this name was also constructed under his supervision, and commanded by him for a number of years. The Charmer was built at East Boston, is 200 feet loam, 37 feet beam and 36 feet doubt of hold, and is conof years. The Charmer was built at East Boston, is 700 feet long, 37 feet beam and 24 feet depth of hold, and is constructed of the best material, and in model, strength and appointments is unsurpassed by any vessel of modern construction. She has been selected by government to carry ordnance and equipment atores, of which she has nearly 1600 tons on board, to Mare Isiand, California, and is completing her loading at pier No. 11 Eastriver. She is well worthy a visit.
